On January 6, 2011, after 20+ years of publishing, it was time to wind that down and, in the spirit of Matrix 5, focus on observational matters, as reflected in the maintenance of the Leading Edge Research Journal Online website. I would encourage you to subscribe. You will find it to be a most satisfying informational experience, and the best system of its kind on the entire Internet. I am sure you will be pleased, if keeping tabs on everything is your desire. Thank you for your patronage. It's a one-stop shop where you can find out your own nature, the nature of reality, and what's going on.

Payment Note: Please make sure if you use a check or money order that you make it out to J. Grace, as it says at the top of this form. Do not make it out to anything else; otherwise I will have to send it back to you. If you send cash, make sure your envelope can't be seen through. Include it inside something else. We rarely ever see a problem happen because most people use common sense.

Questions? Send an email to: val_valerian@yahoo.com Obviously, all websites rely on imperfect existential factors which statistically are bound to change at any point in the future ... the status of the internet, the continued operation of my computer, and my continued existence, all of which are always open to change at any time, as with anyone. I am in good health and expect to be around for a few more years. Your support for all the hard work put in on a daily basis is appreciated.
